Tell us about one thing that makes you special.

Being in a play is a large responsibility. Those who have larger roles will sometimes have much more work to do and a much larger time commitment than those with smaller roles will. They must attend more rehearsals and they must spend extra time working on lines, music and choreography outside of rehearsal. Though some roles are heavier in responsibility, each is equally important to the success of the production. Keeping that in mind, how much responsibility do you feel able to take on?
